Quakers for peace

The use of armed force cannot build a safe and secure world in the long term. As history has taught us, it merely creates cycles of violence and injustice.

Quakers believe there is another way.

That war is not inevitable.

That there is something of God in everyone.

And that a more compassionate peaceful world is possible.

We can create that world by actively undermining the root causes of war, handling conflict creatively and nonviolently, and working together to build a just peace that is more than the absence of war.
